

General Assembly

Human Rights Council

Thirty-seventh session

26 February–23 March 2018

Agenda item 6

Universal periodic review

Report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review *

Guatemala

Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review, established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1, held its twenty-eighth session from 6 to 17 November 2017. The review of Guatemala was held at the 6th meeting, on 8 November 2017. The delegation of Guatemala was headed by the President of the Presidential Commission for Coordinating Executive Policy in the Field of Human Rights, Jorge Luis Borrayo Reyes. At its 14th meeting, held on 14 November 2017, the Working Group adopted the report on Guatemala.

2. On 13 February 2017, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Guatemala: Croatia, Ecuador and India.

3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to Council resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Guatemala:

(a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/28/GTM/1);

(b) A compilation prepared by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/28/GTM/2);

(c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/28/GTM/3 and Corr.1).

4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Belgium, Brazil, Liechtenstein, Norway, Portugal, Slovenia, Sweden, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the United States of America and Uruguay was transmitted to Guatemala through the troika. These questions are available on the extranet of the universal periodic review.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. The delegation of Guatemala reiterated its firm commitment to respecting, guaranteeing and promoting human rights. It recalled the historic result of the peaceful demonstrations the Guatemalan people had held at the national level in September 2015, which had, without any bloodshed, led to the resignation of the President and Vice-President of the Republic of Guatemala. They had been accused of corruption and their cases were currently before the national courts.

6. The capacity of Guatemala to overcome that political crisis had demonstrated the solidity of the Constitution and the proper functioning of State powers. Congress had appointed a transition Government and the sovereign expression of the Guatemalan people had culminated in the election of the fiftieth President of Guatemala, Jimmy Morales Cabrera, for the period 2016–2020.

7. Guatemala was grateful to all the States that had participated in its second universal periodic review, and noted that of the recommendations issued at that review, it had accepted 111 and noted 27. It had also made 5 voluntary commitments. Guatemala was keen to report on the significant action it had taken to implement the recommendations.

8. There were 63 State policies currently in force, 33 of which had been approved between 2012 and 2017. A national human rights policy was currently being drafted for the period 2017–2021.

9. Guatemala made every effort to comply with its international commitments concerning the submission of periodic reports to the United Nations human rights treaty bodies and to facilitate the visits of the special procedures of the Council, among others.

10. Since 2005, at the initiative of the Government, OHCHR in Guatemala had been in operation and its mandate had been renewed by the President of the Republic in September 2017. Guatemala was pleased that the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights was to visit Guatemala in November 2017.

11. The delegation highlighted the tripartite agreement that the Government, workers' representatives and employers' representatives had signed, which had resolved the complaint that had been brought under article 26 of the Constitution of the International Labour Organization (ILO).

12. In May 2014, the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination and a policy on the institutionalization of entities with specialized mandates to address the rights of indigenous peoples had been approved.

13. Several instruments had been adopted to address the scourge of trafficking in persons. One example was a protocol for inter-agency coordination on protection and assistance for victims of human trafficking, which had been adopted in 2015.

14. Guatemala was immersed in a process of national reconciliation concerning enforced disappearances. There was a significant degree of approval in Congress for draft law 3590 on the creation of a national commission for the search for victims of enforced disappearance and other forms of disappearance, and for the ratification of the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance.

15. Meanwhile, there were national mechanisms in place, such as the special investigation procedure of the Human Rights Advocate, and cases were under investigation by the Office of the Prosecutor for Human Rights.

16. Regarding the fight against impunity, the Anti-Corruption Division of the Public Prosecution Service had expanded, and was currently composed of 12 prosecutors' offices, one of which was located within the Office of the Comptroller General. There had been an increase in the number of complaints regarding acts of corruption between 2012 and June 2017, and a total of 247 sanctions had been imposed during that period.

17. The Government had renewed the mandate of the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala for an additional two years in order to enable it to continue investigating parallel bodies and clandestine security organizations. Guatemala acknowledged the support that the International Commission had provided to the Public Prosecution Service and the National Civil Police in the transfer of capacities in the processes of investigation and criminal prosecution.

18. In relation to the right to identity, in 2015 the National Registry Office had launched a pilot project for an early birth notification system. In the light of its positive impact, the system had been implemented in 2016. Between 2013 and 2016, some 239 registry desks had been opened with a view to identifying unregistered children. As a result, 443,774 persons had been registered.

19. The official adoption process had been approved and between 2012 and 2014, the relevant institutions had reviewed 116 files on pending adoptions, of which 4 remained to be finalized. Some anomalies had been identified and the persons involved had been apprehended.

20. On 3 November 2014, the Chixoy Policy had been approved, and a verification and follow-up board had been established in 2015. The implementation of individual compensation had been agreed and between 2015 and 2016, payments had been made to some 1,929 families.

21. In response to the precautionary measure issued by the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights in favour of the patients of the Federico Mora National Mental Health Hospital, several actions had been taken, including the withdrawal of the National Civil Police from the facilities and the review and updating of protocols for admission, management and treatment of patients with mental health problems.

22. The Office for the Analysis of Attacks against Human Rights Defenders in Guatemala was coordinated by the Vice-Ministry of Security of the Ministry of the Interior, with the participation of judges, journalists, union leaders and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons.

23. In follow-up to the recommendations of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, an action plan had been launched for the period 2017–2021.

24. Guatemala underscored its commitment to the Sustainable Development Goals. The education and health conditional monetary transfers were an example of the social programmes in place aimed at implementing policies in the field of education, health, nutrition and productivity for people living in poverty and extreme poverty. Another example was the Family Farming Programme, which was aimed at strengthening the rural economy and contributing to the reduction of chronic malnutrition among children under 2 years of age.

25. The new Migration Code had entered into force in April 2017. It included provisions to strengthen migratory security and recognized the full right to migrate and respect for the rights of migrants.

26. The Public Criminal Defence Institute had brought two cases before the Inter-American Court of Human Rights that had enabled the Supreme Court of Justice to review and commute the death penalty to imprisonment for previous and subsequent cases. On 24 October 2017, the Constitutional Court had upheld the application for constitutional review brought against the application of the death penalty contained in the Criminal Code and the law against drug trafficking.

27. In order to strengthen efforts to address violence against women, the Supreme Court of Justice had increased the number of specialized judicial bodies to 29 in 12 of the 22 departments of the country.

28. The judiciary, the Public Prosecution Service and the Public Criminal Defence Institute had all adopted policies on gender equality and access to justice, and had set up monitoring mechanisms for their implementation. In March 2017, the Public Prosecution Service had created the Women's Secretariat, which was the unit responsible for promoting gender equality policies within the institution.

29. The judiciary had strengthened the Control, Monitoring and Evaluation Unit of the specialized bodies in femicide and other forms of violence against women. In August 2016, the Office of the Prosecutor for Femicide Cases had been created.

30. To meet the basic needs of the people and families affected by judicial eviction provisions, the Government was launching a humanitarian programme based on respect for international protocols, which provided comprehensive care to those groups.

31. In response to recommendations from States contained in previous reports, Guatemala had taken measures to deinstitutionalize children, taking into account the best interests of the child. The Government regretted the tragedy in the Virgen de la Asunción children's home, and had taken urgent measures to ensure that all relevant institutions better coordinated their plans, programmes and actions to take care of vulnerable and unprotected children.

32. Guatemala was continuing to take steps to implement SIMORE, the system to monitor human rights recommendations addressed to it, which was a public online platform to monitor the implementation of international human rights recommendations. Under the lead of the Presidential Human Rights Commission, the system would function with the participation of all State institutions, and would include all their actions that responded to recommendations issued by human rights protection bodies. With the support of Paraguay, the process would be finalized in 2018. The system should also serve to strengthen the participation of civil society organizations at the national level in efforts to follow-up on the recommendations of the universal periodic review and other human rights bodies.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

33. During the interactive dialogue, 68 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.

34. Egypt commended the efforts made by the Government to improve the human rights situation in Guatemala and the implementation of recommendations made during the previous cycle. It also welcomed the steps Guatemala had taken to bolster economic, social and cultural rights.

35. El Salvador congratulated Guatemala for ratifying most human rights instruments and for incorporating their principles into national law. It welcomed the implementation of best practices to improve the integration and protection of vulnerable groups and of policies to counter human trafficking and torture.

36. Finland commended Guatemala for the national consultations that had been held with civil society and agreed that there was a need to decentralize the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala to all regions and to protect judicial officials and human rights defenders. It noted that violence against women remained alarmingly prevalent and that awareness-raising to counter that scourge was urgently required.

37. France welcomed the adoption by Guatemala of judicial reforms and the progress it had made in combating impunity through the work of the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala. It welcomed the fact that the Public Prosecution Service had been strengthened and the 2016 reform establishing judicial independence.

38. Georgia noted with appreciation the significant results Guatemala had achieved in the fight against corruption and impunity, and highlighted the cooperation between the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala and Attorney General's Office.

39. Germany commended Guatemala for its achievements concerning the rights of indigenous peoples and children. It appreciated the fact that civil society stood against corruption and impunity, and took note of the request by Guatemala to renegotiate the mandate of the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala. It was concerned about serious human rights issues.

40. Ghana welcomed the efforts to strengthen the Special Criminal Investigation Division within the National Civil Police and noted with concern that the advisory council of the national office for the prevention of torture was yet to be operational.

41. Greece noted with appreciation the positive steps taken by Guatemala to combat illiteracy, provide adequate housing for all and draw up the Policy on Gender Equality and Promotion of Women's Human Rights.

42. Haiti welcomed the progress Guatemala had made in the fight against impunity, in the abolition of the death penalty in civil cases and in its adoption of the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition 2016–2020.

43. The Holy See noted the efforts of Guatemala to strengthen health care and social and housing programmes for all and to increase the level of literacy among children and adults, thus establishing a multicultural society. It highlighted the initiatives that had been taken to ensure food security for children.

44. Honduras welcomed the adoption of the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination and the development of the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition 2016–2020.

45. Iceland stated that, while it welcomed the progress made in the protection and promotion of human rights since the second universal periodic review of Guatemala, there was still room for much improvement.

46. India noted with appreciation the implementation of the Zero Hunger Pact Initiative and encouraged Guatemala to remain steadfast in its efforts to promote human rights.

47.Indonesia welcomed the creation of the child protection system in Guatemala and its programmes addressing racial discrimination. It considered that cooperation with national human rights institutions was essential in that regard.

48.Iraq commended Guatemala for its progress in combating corruption, impunity and criminal organizations. It welcomed the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination, the National Strategy for the Prevention of Malnutrition and the establishment of the Indigenous and Intercultural Affairs Cabinet.

49.Ireland encouraged Guatemala to continue addressing the continued inequality and exclusion of indigenous people. It welcomed the publication of a procedural guide for consulting peoples. It noted that harassment, intimidation, attacks and criminalization of human rights defenders remained issues of grave concern in Guatemala.

50.The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland welcomed efforts to protect women from violence and tackle impunity and corruption. It expressed concern about the lack of progress on justice reform and urged Guatemala to protect the rights of human rights defenders and the freedom of the press.

51.Italy commended Guatemala for its positive developments in justice reform and appreciated its efforts to address violence against women and children.

52.Libya welcomed the efforts made by Guatemala to implement previous review recommendations, notably on promoting human rights and the rule of law. It commended Guatemala for the adoption of the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination and for its efforts to protect justice officials and human rights defenders.

53.Lithuania noted with appreciation the voluntary commitments Guatemala had made and its efforts and the results it had achieved in the fight against impunity.

54.Luxembourg welcomed the national dialogue on justice reform and noted that it was an important step to ensure access to justice and the independence of the judiciary. Luxembourg expressed concern about the situation of human rights defenders and journalists.

55.Malaysia praised Guatemala for its efforts to address chronic malnutrition through its Zero Hunger Pact Initiative, and to enhance women's productive capacity by helping them to establish small and micro-businesses. It commended Guatemala for its training programmes for indigenous women.

56.Maldives welcomed the general government policy for 2016–2020, which was aligned with the “Our Guatemala 2032” National Development Plan. It also welcomed the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition and the inclusive model to develop and strengthen the network of health services and human resources.

57.Mexico commended Guatemala for the establishment of its inter-agency anti-trafficking commission and the progress made by the National Literacy Committee, the programmes on nutrition and care of women in vulnerable situations.

58.Montenegro acknowledged the progress Guatemala had made in combating corruption and impunity and encouraged it to strengthen its efforts to create an enabling environment for children, especially by prohibiting corporal punishment. Montenegro voiced concern about the high rates of violence against women and asked Guatemala to elaborate on its plans to raise awareness of that phenomenon.

59.Morocco welcomed the efforts of Guatemala to improve human rights, noting the measures it had taken to guarantee the right to food, reduce maternal and child mortality, combat violence against women, promote women's political participation, protect children and promote the rights of children with disabilities.

60.The Netherlands welcomed the efforts made to promote human rights in the police and the judiciary, and highlighted the importance of the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala in combating organized crime. It was concerned that many challenges remained, particularly concerning ill-treatment of human rights defenders and journalists, among others.

61.New Zealand highlighted the fact that the national mechanism for the prevention of torture was still not operational. It voiced concern about the prevalence of gender-based violence and the legal status of the death penalty, while commending the country's efforts to abolish it.

62.Nicaragua acknowledged the progress made since the previous review, particularly the legislative and political efforts Guatemala had made to combat human trafficking and eradicate racism and racial discrimination.

63.Norway commended Guatemala for the progress made by the Public Prosecution Service to increase justice and reduce impunity. It was concerned about the increased levels of poverty, which particularly affected indigenous peoples and needed to be addressed with coherent strategies.

64.Pakistan appreciated the adoption of the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination. It commended Guatemala for its efforts to address human trafficking, notably the adoption of the protocol for inter-agency coordination on protection and assistance for victims of human trafficking.

65.Panama acknowledged the challenges Guatemala faced relating to organized crime. It commended its efforts to strengthen the human rights legal and institutional framework, and welcomed the national agreement to protect labour rights, including the right to form trade unions.

66.Paraguay raised concern about the high rate of femicide and violence against women, and indigenous women's vulnerability. It welcomed measures to empower vulnerable groups, promote indigenous women's rights, prevent domestic violence and promote gender equality, including the increase in the legal age of marriage.

67. Peru commended the efforts of Guatemala to implement the recommendations from the previous review. It highlighted the progress made to combat corruption and impunity and to promote indigenous peoples' right to health, education and culture.

68. The Philippines commended Guatemala for its efforts to advance women's rights, encourage their participation in society and promote their empowerment through its Policy on Gender Equality and Promotion of Women's Human Rights. It welcomed the policies that had been introduced to protect migrants' rights.

69. Portugal commended Guatemala for its efforts to address violence and insecurity, which had resulted in fewer violent deaths during the previous two years.

70. The Republic of Korea commended the Government for its active role in increasing access to public education and its focus on providing public health services. It welcomed the progress made in judicial reform.

71. Serbia commended Guatemala for its efforts to empower women, particularly rural and indigenous women. It welcomed the adoption of the Policy on Gender Equality and Promotion of Women's Human Rights, which was in line with international standards.

72. Sierra Leone commended Guatemala for its National Development Plan, its prison reform policy, its efforts to tackle malnutrition through the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition and its Zero Hunger Pact Initiative. Sierra Leone requested information on action concerning Guatemalans of African descent.

73. Singapore welcomed the reactivation of the National Coordinating Body for the Prevention of Domestic Violence and Violence against Women. It acknowledged the efforts of Guatemala to improve public health, education, housing and employment programmes and commended its "My Golden Years" programme for the elderly.

74. Slovakia regretted that the death penalty was still legal in Guatemala. It welcomed the road map for the prevention and elimination of the worst forms of child labour, but noted that child labour cases were still being reported despite targeted inspections.

75. Slovenia encouraged Guatemala to implement measures to prevent violence against women and girls and to bring the perpetrators to justice through the allocation of sufficient resources to ensure victims had access to justice. Slovenia commended Guatemala for its recent progress in addressing extrajudicial killings and corruption.

76. Spain commended Guatemala for its efforts to implement previous recommendations, the improvements it had made within human rights institutions and its progress in combating violence against women. It was concerned that minors were placed with convicted criminals in some State-run care institutions. It referred to the situation of human rights defenders.

77. Sweden noted that gender-based violence and violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons was frequent in Guatemala, despite the measures that had been taken to strengthen the legal framework and address that phenomenon. Sweden noted that, in some cases, ordinary court judgments took into account human rights and a gender perspective, but prevention, resource allocation and implementation remained challenges.

78. Switzerland welcomed the results achieved in fighting corruption in Guatemala and the Constitutional Court decision on the unconstitutionality of the death penalty for civil offences, which it hoped would prompt the abolition of capital punishment. Switzerland was concerned that human rights defenders faced intimidation, attacks and reprisals and that indigenous populations faced discrimination.

79. Timor-Leste commended Guatemala for holding national consultations to prepare for the universal periodic review. It appreciated the adoption of a new hospital care protocol for victims of sexual violence and the establishment of a child protection system.

80. Ukraine welcomed the efforts of Guatemala to adopt the Institutional Strategic Plan, to extend the National Reparations Programme and to sign an agreement with Paraguay to install the SIMORE system. It was concerned about attacks on journalists and the lack of accountability for human rights violations.

81. Israel welcomed the adoption of the "Our Guatemala 2032" National Development Plan, the Comprehensive Differentiated Health Strategy for Transgender Persons in Guatemala 2016–2030, the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition 2016–2020, the Telematic Surveillance Act, the inter-agency anti-trafficking commission, the child protection system and the child pornography unit.

82. The United States of America commended Guatemala for its efforts to combat impunity and ensure institutional continuity, while expressing concern at the ousting of the Commissioner of the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala and the criminalization of and violence against human rights defenders, journalists and justice sector staff.

83. Uruguay welcomed the national consultation that had been conducted with civil society organizations, which had identified as priorities for Guatemala the need to address violence against women and the situation of indigenous people. It praised the establishment of a Sexual Diversity Unit within the Office of the Human Rights Advocate.

84. The Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela took note of the efforts of Guatemala to uphold human rights. It was, however, concerned at the lack of independence of the judiciary, which was allegedly permeated by criminal organizations, resulting in impunity. It urged Guatemala to investigate all cases of killing, intimidation, violence, arbitrary detention and defamation of human rights defenders and journalists. It raised concern about violence against children and young people in State-run care institutions.

85. Algeria welcomed the progress made by Guatemala on the promotion and protection of human rights, particularly in the areas of development, racial discrimination, human trafficking, penitentiary reform, child protection and sexual violence.

86. Angola commended Guatemala for the progress made in the social and economic sectors. It noted with concern, however, the difficulties concerning access to health and education, and regarding child labour.

87. Argentina welcomed the ratification of the Marrakesh Treaty to Facilitate Access to Published Works for Persons Who Are Blind, Visually Impaired or Otherwise Print Disabled.

88. Armenia appreciated the voluntary submission by Guatemala of midterm reports and the adoption of the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination, as well as the steps taken to reduce malnutrition, especially in rural areas, and to establish protection mechanisms for vulnerable groups.

89. Australia welcomed the progress Guatemala had made to ensure gender equality and improve the health and well-being of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons. It was concerned by reports of a lack of independence of the judiciary, that women and transgender and transsexual persons faced violence, and that human rights activists faced threats and were heavily penalized.

90. Azerbaijan commended Guatemala for its commitment to the universal periodic review process, the progress achieved since the previous cycle and its constructive cooperation with the United Nations human rights mechanisms.

91. Bahrain noted with satisfaction the implementation of the Zero Hunger Pact Initiative, but voiced concern at the spread of violence against women, racism and discrimination, particularly against indigenous and Afro-descendant women. It called on Guatemala to swiftly resolve that issue.

92. Belgium acknowledged that Guatemala was taking positive steps to implement the recommendations it had accepted during its second review. However, further progress could be achieved to prevent and address violence against women and in the fight against impunity.

93. The Plurinational State of Bolivia welcomed the Inter-agency Forum and the national consultations that had been held with civil society organizations. It expressed concern about the lack of consultation with indigenous peoples, and the obstacles for them to access their rights.

94. Burkina Faso congratulated Guatemala for the progress it had made since the last review. However, several challenges remained, particularly in the areas of security, justice, violence against women and the rights of children and indigenous peoples.

95. Canada urged Guatemala to fulfil its commitment to reduce chronic malnutrition by 10 per cent, including through the development of a comprehensive policy to address food insecurity. It welcomed the Constitutional Court ruling that the death penalty was unconstitutional.

96. Chile expressed concern about the fact that indigenous peoples continued to be victims of racial discrimination, inequality and exclusion and that, as long as inequalities between men and women persisted, indigenous women would experience double discrimination.

97. Costa Rica stated that, despite the measures that had been taken, chronic malnutrition among children, particularly in rural areas, continued to be widespread. It also expressed concern about discrimination against indigenous peoples.

98. Côte d'Ivoire welcomed the adoption of legislative and institutional reforms with a view to protecting and promoting human rights in the country. It encouraged Guatemala to continue its efforts in the field of human rights.

99. Denmark stated that protecting the sexual and reproductive health and rights of women and girls was of paramount importance. It noted that Guatemala had established a national mechanism for the prevention of torture, which was, however, not yet operational.

100. Ecuador welcomed efforts to implement the recommendations from the second review cycle, particularly the adoption of the Institutional Strategic Plan 2017–2021, aimed at ensuring the coordination of public policies and national legislation in order to consolidate the development and strengthening of national institutions.

101. Brazil welcomed the efforts of Guatemala to ensure all citizens' enjoyment of human rights. It suggested that Guatemala adopt effective measures to protect the life and physical integrity of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons.

102. The judiciary and the Supreme Court of Justice of Guatemala welcomed the boost to the draft law on a national sex offender registry and a genetic databank and the security measures granted to victims of domestic violence and femicide. It underscored the measures that had been taken to safeguard the freedom of individuals and to combat overcrowding in prisons through alternatives to incarceration, as well as to follow-up the cases of victims of the fire at the Virgen de la Asunción children's home.

103. The Public Criminal Defence Institute of Guatemala underscored its work on gender issues, women's rights, human rights and disadvantaged groups, including patients at the Federico Mora National Mental Health Hospital. It drew attention to the work of the national office to coordinate legal aid for women who had been the victims of any form of violence and for affected family members, the cultural training provided to judges on indigenous law, and the use of early release of prisoners as a means of combating overcrowding.

104. The Public Prosecution Service of Guatemala highlighted the creation of a protocol for inter-agency coordination on protection and assistance for victims of human trafficking, and a general directive regulating the activities of the assistance, coordination and intervention mechanisms of the service responsible for victim assistance and criminal prosecution of trafficking cases. It underscored the work of the child protection system and the child pornography unit, as well as the creation of the Children and Young Persons Section.

105. The Ministry of the Interior of Guatemala drew attention to the establishment of the Sexual Crimes Unit and the Anti-Trafficking Unit, the ratification of the Arms Trade Treaty, the financial support aimed at preventing domestic violence and violence against women, the improvement of internal and external security according to the new penitentiary management model, and the creation of the first detention centre for women under that model. The Government was committed to continuing its efforts to protect the life and physical integrity of human rights defenders and journalists.

106. The Ministry of Labour and Social Welfare of Guatemala highlighted the adoption of the national employment policy, the promotion of the workplace breastfeeding strategy and the inclusive employment policy for persons with disabilities. It reported on progress achieved in the eradication of child labour, the reform of the Labour Code, under which the labour inspectorate could issue sanctions, and draft law 5199 on bringing national legislation into accordance with international treaties, particularly the ILO Freedom of Association and Protection of the Right to Organise Convention, 1948 (No. 87), which was currently before Congress.

107. The Guatemalan Presidential Commission on Discrimination and Racism against Indigenous Peoples underscored the efforts that had been made to uphold the rights of indigenous peoples through, inter alia, improved coordination between the indigenous and official legal systems. Moreover, with regard to indigenous women deprived of their liberty, a women's unit focused on assisting indigenous women accused of criminal acts and ensuring them prompt and full access to justice had been set up, and a protocol had been developed for the provision of assistance to women victims of various forms of violence.

108. The Ministry of Public Health and Social Welfare of Guatemala, under the protocol for victims of sexual violence, had authorized the opening of several offices of the Public Prosecution Service in hospitals, trained hospital staff and health professionals on the use of the comprehensive care guide for pregnant women under 14 years of age, and had taken steps to ensure comprehensive sexual education and the prevention of teenage pregnancies.

109. The Food and Nutritional Security Secretariat of Guatemala noted that it had drawn up the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition, which had incorporated the recommendations of the impact assessment of the Zero Hunger Pact Initiative. The law on school feeding had been adopted with the aim of guaranteeing that children who attended school received nutritional food and thus improved their health.

110. Lastly, the delegation of Guatemala stated that it supported what it considered to be the most important recommendations. It valued both bilateral and multilateral international cooperation, which should under no circumstances be driven by private interests or any motivation other than safeguarding fundamental rights and liberties. It would accept the recommendations that would truly contribute to the system of human rights protection. It acknowledged all the support for the efforts it had made, within the context of its conviction that development was the best way to achieve human rights for peace.

II. Conclusions and/or recommendations

111. The recommendations formulated during the interactive dialogue listed below have been examined by Guatemala and enjoy the support of Guatemala:

111.1 Establish a systematic consultation and follow-up mechanism with civil society and non-governmental organizations on the implementation of recommendations formulated in the framework of the universal periodic review (Haiti);

111.2 Keep its standing follow-up mechanism for recommendations (Paraguay);

111.3 Continue the good cooperation with the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights at country level, which has generated concrete results, including the development of new jurisprudence in the field of human rights (Norway);

111.4 Continue internal institutional processes to strengthen democracy, justice and respect for human rights (El Salvador);

111.5 Finalize and implement a national action plan to follow up the Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (Norway);

111.6 Continue to provide sufficient funding for its human rights programmes and activities (Philippines);

111.7 Increase funding and political support for government human rights institutions and programmes, including the Presidential Commission on Human Rights, the Human Rights Ombudsman's Office and the National Reparations Programme (United States of America);

111.8 Strengthen national efforts to combat discrimination, xenophobia and racism, in particular discriminatory practices against indigenous people, migrants, refugees and people of African descent (Egypt);

111.9 Explicitly incorporate the approach based on gender rights and sensitivity, the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination and the Plan for its implementation so that, in line with the 2030 Agenda, no one is left behind (Honduras);

111.10 Continue efforts to ensure the promotion of the rights of indigenous peoples (Armenia);

111.11 Continue efforts to facilitate and promote indigenous peoples' access to education, sanitation, property and public positions (Holy See);

111.12 Continue its efforts in taking steps to eliminate further racial discrimination, in consultation with national human rights institutions and all other relevant stakeholders (Indonesia);

111.13 Continue implementing effective actions to combat discrimination and guarantee indigenous peoples' rights, by improving access to public services, life expectancy, education, including comprehensive sexual education, infrastructure and salary (Mexico);

111.14 Continue and redouble the efforts to combat racism, racial discrimination and other related forms of intolerance, placing particular attention on the structural elements of discrimination that might affect the effective exercise of the rights to health, education, decent work and participation in decision-making processes by indigenous people and people of African descent (Nicaragua);

111.15 Expedite the implementation of the Public Policy for Coexistence and Elimination of Racism and Racial Discrimination (Sierra Leone);

111.16 Put in place effective measures and policies to address discrimination against indigenous peoples (Sierra Leone);

111.17 Strengthen the system of development councils in order to improve the participation of the indigenous population in public management (Plurinational State of Bolivia);

111.18 Intensify efforts to put an end to racial discrimination, and to this end, fill the legal vacuum by adopting a law that sanctions it (Burkina Faso);

111.19 Persist in its efforts to combat the structural causes of racial discrimination against indigenous peoples, in order to ensure access to quality education and health services (Costa Rica);

111.20 Continue its efforts to establish effective consultation processes with indigenous communities (El Salvador);

111.21 Strengthen national efforts to prevent land conflicts between indigenous peoples and farmers (Iraq);

111.22 Ensure that the requirement to consult with indigenous peoples on decisions concerning lands traditionally owned by them is enshrined in law, and that every effort is made by the Government to ensure that this instrument complies with international standards (Ireland);

111.23 Ensure the full participation of indigenous peoples in decision-making processes which concern them, and ensure that they are consulted in the context of the planning and implementation of large-scale economic projects (Switzerland);

111.24 Substantially increase State spending on programmes for indigenous peoples and institutions. This can help address poverty while ensuring the meaningful participation of, and consultation with, indigenous peoples in decisions affecting them and their rights (Canada);

111.25 Adopt a law on rural development, followed by a comprehensive policy and an increase of the budget of the Ministry of Social Development (Honduras);

111.26 Continue strengthening measures to address cases of violence and organized crime (Indonesia);

111.27 Ensure that all private security companies are registered and that their activities are properly monitored (Portugal);

111.28 Investigate fully allegations of serious acts of violence, including numerous murders, against trade union officers and their members, and bring their perpetrators to justice (Greece);

111.29 Strengthen the role and capacity of the National Civil Police with a view to reducing the role of the armed forces in the maintenance of public order (Portugal);

111.30 Appoint independent and qualified members to the whole national preventive mechanism to enable the institution to function in accordance with the aims and objectives of the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (Ghana);

111.31 Take the necessary action to publish the report of the Subcommittee on Prevention of Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment in order to assist a dialogue on the implementation of the Subcommittee's recommendations (Ghana);

111.32 Appoint independent and qualified members to its national preventive mechanism to enable it to function in accordance with the objectives of the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture (New Zealand);

111.33 Strengthen the framework of the National Office for the Prevention of Torture to ensure it is fully functional and able to investigate all reported cases (Sierra Leone);

111.34 Appoint without further delay independent and qualified members of the whole national preventive mechanism to enable the mechanism to function in accordance with the aims and objectives of the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture (Denmark);

111.35 Take necessary steps to guarantee the life, physical integrity and health of persons held in detention facilities, shelters or psychiatric hospitals (Algeria);

111.36 Take all necessary steps to ensure that key government institutions responsible for tackling human trafficking — especially of women and children — are properly funded (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);

111.37 Pursue efforts to combat human trafficking (Libya);

111.38 Pursue efforts to prevent and combat human trafficking, exploitation of persons and other contemporary forms of slavery, including sexual exploitation, and provide support and protection to victims, paying particular attention to vulnerable groups such as indigenous people, children, women, people with disabilities and non-nationals (Nicaragua);

111.39 Implement foster care programmes and alternatives to the penalty of deprivation of liberty (Spain);

111.40 Strengthen protection measures for human rights defenders (El Salvador);

111.41 Strengthen protection for journalists, which is essential to the full respect of fundamental freedoms, in particular by rapidly realizing the programme of protection for journalists, for which much effort has already been made (France);

111.42 Further strengthen measures to protect human rights defenders (Georgia);

111.43 Support the work of civil society by implementing public policies to protect it and end the misuse of penal and administrative law against human rights defenders, including indigenous peoples' human rights defenders, especially in the context of hydroelectric and mining projects (Germany);

111.44 Adopt a mechanism for the protection of journalists and release all journalists detained for exercising their freedom of expression (Greece);

111.45 Ensure prompt, thorough and impartial investigations regarding attacks against human rights defenders and adopt a public policy on their protection (Greece);

111.46 Continue efforts to promote freedom of expression and information by protecting journalists (Holy See);

111.47 Continue its efforts to develop a system to protect journalists and safeguard freedom of expression (Indonesia);

111.48 Take all necessary measures to protect human rights defenders through the removal of legal and policy measures which inhibit the ability of defenders to carry out their vital work in safety, without fear of interference, obstruction or harassment of any kind, including by finalizing the public policy for the protection of human rights defenders with strong participation by civil society and an adequate budgetary allocation (Ireland);

111.49 Safeguard the activities of human rights defenders, introducing national laws and policies to protect them (Italy);

111.50 Foresee protection measures for human rights defenders, in accordance with international commitments (Lithuania);

111.51 Adopt a framework for the protection of media professionals, based on the United Nations Plan of Action on the Safety of Journalists and the Issue of Impunity (Lithuania);

111.52 Implement a protection policy for human rights defenders, in coordination with civil society (Luxembourg);

111.53 Approve and implement the programme for the protection of journalists, in consultation with the latter (Luxembourg);

111.54 Take all necessary steps to work towards diminishing threats and violence against human rights defenders, especially women and journalists, and to implement an effective mechanism to protect them from these threats (Netherlands);

111.55 Initiate timely, independent, impartial and effective investigations into threats and attacks against human rights defenders, particularly indigenous defenders, to ensure their effective protection (Republic of Korea);

111.56 Ensure that thorough and impartial investigations are carried out into allegations of attacks against human rights defenders (Sierra Leone);

111.57 Adopt appropriate measures to ensure safety and protection of human rights defenders and take all necessary steps to ensure prosecution of all those responsible for violation of their rights (Slovakia);

111.58 Implement public policies so as to protect the work of human rights defenders in line with international standards, and implement measures aimed at the effective reduction of attacks and at their independent and effective investigation (Spain);

111.59 Adopt and ensure full implementation of the public policy for the protection of human rights defenders as well as the protocol of the Public Prosecutor's Office on the investigation of cases against human rights defenders (Sweden);

111.60 Implement effective protection measures and undertake an immediate and systematic investigation into abuses committed against human rights defenders, as previously recommended (Switzerland);

111.61 Strengthen the protection measures for human rights defenders, taking due account of gender and cultural aspects (Ukraine);

111.62 In consultation with civil society groups across Guatemala, finalize and implement a public policy for human rights defenders' protection (United States of America);

111.63 Implement safeguards for human rights defenders by introducing legislation to protect freedom of association and assembly (Australia);

111.64 Initiate or pursue timely, independent, impartial and effective investigations into threats and attacks against human rights defenders and bring those responsible to justice (Belgium);

111.65 Develop a gender and culturally differentiated public policy for the protection of human rights defenders, and ensure adequate political support and resources for its implementation (Canada);

111.66 Lift restrictions on freedom of expression and adopt legal and regulatory measures for the protection and safety of journalists against persecution, intimidation and harassment (Chile);

111.67 Ensure that human rights defenders can carry out their legitimate activities without fear or undue impediment, obstruction, or legal or administrative harassment (Chile);

111.68 Strengthen the independence and effectiveness of the judiciary and adopt all necessary measures to consolidate recent efforts in the fight against impunity (Germany);

111.69 Increase efforts in the fight against impunity and corruption, through increasing the financial resources for the judiciary and through the implementation of judicial reforms aimed at fully ensuring the independence of the judiciary (Netherlands);

111.70 Continue with its efforts to strengthen the effectiveness and independence of the justice system (Republic of Korea);

111.71 Continue the policy agenda to strengthen the specialized justice system to protect women (Ukraine);

111.72 Dismantle groups of power and other clandestine structures of corruption that prevent guarantees of fair trials and due process, in line with international standards (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

111.73 Adopt measures to ensure the sustainability of efforts to fight corruption, such as legal and public policy reforms, to improve public confidence in the justice system and to increase its independence (Canada);

111.74 Ensure that the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala is able to perform its work effectively (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);

111.75 Closely cooperate with the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala (Lithuania);

111.76 Fully cooperate with the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala in all aspects of its mandate (Sweden);

111.77 Cooperate with, and support the work of, the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala (Australia);

111.78 Continue to invest resources to expand social programmes that promote and protect the human rights of older persons in Guatemala, in particular those living in poverty, to allow them to age with dignity (Singapore);

111.79 Implement measures to facilitate access to health care and education, particularly for the most vulnerable populations (Angola);

111.80 Back efforts to counter child malnutrition and continue to strengthen programmes to eradicate poverty and extreme poverty (Germany);

111.81 Assign the necessary human and financial resources for the prompt implementation of the National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition 2016–2020 (Honduras);

111.82 Ensure that community development councils channel funds for their projects to address the problem of chronic malnutrition, particularly among the indigenous and rural populations (Malaysia);

111.83 Develop and implement comprehensive and efficient policies to fight poverty and in particular chronic and acute malnutrition (Norway);

111.84 Continue to work for the implementation of its National Strategy to Prevent Chronic Malnutrition 2016–2020 and strengthen its Food Aid Programme to prevent food insecurity (Pakistan);

111.85 Intensify efforts to prevent and eradicate chronic malnutrition, especially among children living in rural and remote areas (Panama);

- 111.86 Continue the efforts to fight against child malnutrition, particularly among indigenous people (Peru);
- 111.87 Intensify its efforts to combat and prevent malnutrition among children (Timor-Leste);
- 111.88 Address the structural causes of poverty faced by the most economically vulnerable communities, in particular regarding chronic malnutrition (Algeria);
- 111.89 Strengthen policies and programmes to combat chronic malnutrition and ensure food security (Costa Rica);
- 111.90 Take specific measures to promote access to health-care services, especially in rural areas (India);
- 111.91 Increase resource allocation and accessibility to public health services (Republic of Korea);
- 111.92 Increase the budget allocated to health care and take all necessary measures to strengthen a national health-care system accessible to all, without discrimination (Côte d'Ivoire);
- 111.93 Adopt effective measures to address widespread child pregnancy and ensure access to sexual and reproductive health rights, as well as education programmes (Germany);
- 111.94 Continue its efforts to provide universal good quality education for all children, especially girls (Pakistan);
- 111.95 Continue the efforts to reduce the illiteracy rate (Peru);
- 111.96 Implement compulsory primary education, providing resources to ensure the quality and infrastructure of the education system (Portugal);
- 111.97 Take further measures to ensure children's access to education, particularly for those with disabilities and living in remote communities (Armenia);
- 111.98 Elaborate and implement programmes and initiatives to encourage the sharing of domestic responsibilities and childcare with a view to eliminating gender stereotypes (Haiti);
- 111.99 Actively work towards equal remuneration for men and women by taking credible steps (India);
- 111.100 Continue the efforts to promote gender equality by promoting balanced representation in decision-making positions, equality in the work market and entrepreneurship, including equal pay and equal access to credit and other financial services, among other measures, paying particular attention to girls and women from indigenous people and people of African descent (Nicaragua);
- 111.101 Strengthen strategies so as to combat stereotypes and all forms of discrimination against women and persons with disabilities (Panama);
- 111.102 Ensure the inclusion of women and girls with disabilities in all policies and programmes on equality and gender discrimination (Paraguay);
- 111.103 Adopt measures to combat violence and discrimination against women and indigenous communities (Uruguay);
- 111.104 Continue to enact laws and promote policies aimed at protecting women and enhancing their roles in society (Bahrain);
- 111.105 Strengthen the "Creciendo Segura" programme, aimed at low-income women, with an emphasis on women living in rural areas (Plurinational State of Bolivia);
- 111.106 Strengthen efforts to combat violence against women (Egypt);
- 111.107 Intensify awareness-raising measures against femicide and violence against women, as well as on the recommendations of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (Finland);
- 111.108 Combat violence against women by putting an end to impunity in this area (France);
- 111.109 Intensify efforts to tackle femicide and violence against women (Georgia);
- 111.110 Implement effective and coordinated measures to prevent violence against women, especially against young women and girls (Iceland);
- 111.111 Strengthen efforts to carry out prompt, impartial and effective investigations into all forms of violence against women and to bring those responsible to justice (Iceland);
- 111.112 Strengthen efforts to prevent and combat all forms of discrimination and violence against women and children, adopting comprehensive legislation and launching awareness-raising campaigns. Ensure that women victims of violence receive appropriate help and perpetrators are brought to justice (Italy);
- 111.113 Ensure, through a coordinated and comprehensive institutional effort, access to justice for women who have been victims of violence (Lithuania);

111.114 Strengthen the fight against all forms of violence against women and girls by ensuring effective implementation of relevant laws and policies, and ensure access to justice and care (Luxembourg);

111.115 Continue efforts to address the problem of domestic violence against women (Malaysia);

111.116 Pursue efforts to fight against femicide and violence against women, and provide for specialized care centres for victims of this violence (Morocco);

111.117 Allocate sufficient resources to specialized courts and tribunals with jurisdiction over femicide and other forms of violence against women (Paraguay);

111.118 Open up and strengthen specialized centres providing care to women victims of violence (Paraguay);

111.119 Carry out awareness-raising campaigns on all matters related to gender violence (Paraguay);

111.120 Enhance the promotion and protection of the rights of women and girls, including through the elimination of violence against them (Portugal);

111.121 Continue to raise awareness regarding the criminal nature of domestic violence and bring those responsible before the courts (Serbia);

111.122 Implement more measures to prevent violence against women, such as the training workshops conducted by the Office for the Defence of Indigenous Women's Rights on the protection of indigenous women (Singapore);

111.123 Establish a mechanism for improving coordination and strengthening various institutions dealing with violence against women (Slovenia);

111.124 Allocate sufficient resources to specialized courts and tribunals with jurisdiction over femicide and other forms of violence against women, and move towards the full implementation of the Law against Femicide and Other Forms of Violence against Women (Spain);

111.125 Continue to raise awareness regarding the criminal nature of domestic violence and take measures to prosecute those responsible for such actions (Israel);

111.126 Further enhance the promotion and protection of women's rights, including addressing violence against women and femicide (Azerbaijan);

111.127 Implement effective and coordinated measures to prevent violence against women, especially against young women and girls, and ensure that perpetrators of violence are brought to justice (Belgium);

111.128 Address the structural causes of organized crime, including those relating to sexual violence (Burkina Faso);

111.129 Pursue awareness-raising activities on domestic violence, including prosecution and sentencing of the perpetrators (Burkina Faso);

111.130 Allocate appropriate resources for the effective application of the law against femicide and other forms of gender-based violence, including better access to services for victims (Canada);

111.131 Strengthen initiatives to sensitize the population about the criminal nature of domestic violence and bring those responsible for this crime to justice (Ecuador);

111.132 Promote large-scale registration campaigns for women voters, in particular in rural areas and notably for indigenous women, with a view to ensuring their full participation in political and public life (Haiti);

111.133 Continue to combat gender stereotypes by promoting equal representation of men and women in public office (Timor-Leste);

111.134 Take measures to improve women's representation in decision-making positions in the public sector and reduce the gender pay gap (Israel);

111.135 Establish a mechanism to increase the participation of women, particularly indigenous women, in key positions of the three powers of the Republic and in decision-making processes (Costa Rica);

111.136 Ensure free, universal birth registration and provide all children born in the territory, particularly those born in indigenous communities, with a birth certificate (Portugal);

111.137 Strengthen further the child protection system in the country through the necessary reforms, adopting a human-rights based approach (Maldives);

111.138 Pursue efforts to train personnel for the optimal care of children in the context of access to education and health care, and within the implementation of effective social programmes in these areas (Morocco);

111.139 Guarantee the life, integrity and physical safety of children and adolescents placed in State shelters, provide adequate reparation for the damages caused, prohibit corporal punishment of children in all settings, and repeal the legal exemptions endorsed in the Civil Code and Law (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

111.140 Put in place a policy for the protection of children and adolescents, with a view to better protecting them against acts of violence and crimes committed against them, as well as in relation to the large number of early pregnancies (France);

111.141 Increase efforts to abolish child labour, also by conducting systematic labour inspections (Greece);

111.142 Maintain and expand those existing initiatives to fight against trafficking in children and child labour, and protect children from sexual exploitation and other forms of modern slavery, especially by enhancing services of registration at birth (Holy See);

111.143 Strengthen the system for protecting children from exploitation (Libya);

111.144 Adopt concrete measures aimed at reducing the vulnerability of children to child labour and sexual exploitation, so as to ensure that Guatemala is a country free from child labour and its worst forms (Panama);

111.145 Intensify labour inspections focusing on child labour and prosecution of violators of child labour legislation (Slovakia);

111.146 Strengthen legislation to protect children from all forms of violence (Bahrain);

111.147 Further develop economic assistance programmes for the elderly and persons with disabilities (Libya);

111.148 Maintain the commitment to ensure that people with disabilities fully enjoy all their rights (Peru);

111.149 Ensure equal access to justice and the exercise of political rights to people with disabilities (Israel);

111.150 Integrate children with disabilities in the national education system (Bahrain).

112. The recommendations formulated during the interactive dialogue listed below have been examined by Guatemala and have been noted by Guatemala:

112.1 Ratify the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty (Montenegro);

112.2 Consider ratifying the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (Georgia);

112.3 Ratify the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty (Spain);

112.4 Ratify the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance (Ukraine);

112.5 Ratify the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

112.6 Consider ratification of the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a communications procedure (Uruguay);

112.7 Ratify the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a communications procedure (Azerbaijan);

112.8 Ratify the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance (Iraq) (Montenegro) (Sierra Leone);

112.9 Consider ratification of the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance (Uruguay);

112.10 Consider the possibility of ratifying the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance and adapting its national legislation to this instrument (Ecuador);

112.11 Consider ratifying the ILO Domestic Workers Convention, 2011 (No. 189) (Philippines);

112.12 Ratify the ILO Domestic Workers Convention, 2011 (No. 189) (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

112.13 Adopt an open, merit-based selection process when selecting national candidates for United Nations treaty body elections (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);

112.14 Create a national search commission for victims of enforced disappearance and other forms of disappearance (El Salvador);

112.15 Amend the legislation to penalize hate crimes and crimes of intolerance based on discrimination, especially in cases of race, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression (Israel);

112.16 Adopt awareness-raising measures to guarantee that people belonging to the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex community are not discriminated against on the grounds of their sexual orientation and gender identity (Uruguay);

112.17 Better ensure respect for the human rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, who are sometimes victims of discrimination or even of hate crimes (France);

112.18 Create a legislative framework and implement public policies and social awareness campaigns to eliminate violence and discrimination based on sexual orientations and gender identity (New Zealand);

112.19 Amend the Criminal Code to penalize hate crimes and crimes of social intolerance based on sexual orientation, gender identity and sexual characteristics (Slovenia);

112.20 Adopt measures to ensure the protection of the life as well as the physical and psychological integrity of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons (Chile);

112.21 Apply the methodological proposal to implement the consultation accepted by the Quiché indigenous authorities on those matters related to indigenous people (Peru);

112.22 Set up a legal framework to recognize indigenous peoples' rights to have access to and manage their territories of origin and their natural resources, and to participate in the decision-making processes on those matters concerning them (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

112.23 Adopt legislation to criminalize any diffusion of ideas based on racial superiority or hatred, any incitement to racial discrimination or any act of racially motivated violence (Brazil);

112.24 Establish an official moratorium on executions and abolish the death penalty for all crimes (Iceland);

112.25 Consider taking steps with a view to abolishing the death penalty (Italy);

112.26 Introduce a moratorium on the use of the death penalty and work towards its abolition, including by ratifying the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (New Zealand);

112.27 Abolish the death penalty (Portugal) (Costa Rica) (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

112.28 Abolish the death penalty, as previously recommended (Slovakia);

112.29 Establish a de jure moratorium on executions and abolish the death penalty for all crimes, and consider ratifying the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (Slovenia);

112.30 Abolish the death penalty in all cases (Timor-Leste);

112.31 Ratify the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty (Angola);

112.32 Formally abolish the death penalty and accede to the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (Australia);

112.33 Abolish the death penalty in national legislation by adopting law No. 5100 on the final abolition of the death penalty (Côte d'Ivoire);

112.34 Enact draft law No. 3590 related to the commission on the search for victims of enforced disappearance and other disappearances, which is currently under consideration by the Congress (Mexico);

112.35 Put an end to the use of the criminal justice system to intimidate, threaten, marginalize and stigmatize journalists, social organizations and human rights defenders engaged in the defence of economic, social, cultural and environmental rights and of indigenous peoples' rights (Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela);

112.36 Implement the outcomes of the national dialogue for Constitutional reform in the field of justice, which was initiated in February 2016, whose purpose was to hold consultations with all stakeholders regarding actions to further the strengthening of the justice system in Guatemala (Mexico);

112.37 Establish mechanisms for the selection of judges which rule out any risk of politicization or conflict of interest, and ensure that the principle of separation of administrative and judicial functions of the Supreme Court guarantees the full independence and impartiality of the judiciary in Guatemala (Switzerland);

112.38 Take steps to approve and implement the 2016 Constitutional reform on the appointment of the judiciary as this would help to ensure its independence (Australia);

112.39 Decentralize the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala to all regions (Finland);

112.40 Ensure that the International Commission against Impunity in Guatemala is able to operate without interference and that government institutions key to anti-corruption efforts continue to be adequately funded with dedicated leadership (United States of America);

112.41 Deepen the measures aimed at speeding up the progress of trials of the perpetrators of acts of genocide and crimes against humanity and provide due protection to the judges involved in these investigations (Argentina);

112.42 Consider the possibility of establishing a universal basic income with a view to further reducing poverty and inequality levels, for improving the existing social protection system (Haiti);

112.43 Adopt an intercultural health policy and strategy with an approach based on gender rights and sensitivity ensuring, inter alia, universal access to sexual and reproductive health, particularly in rural areas (Honduras);

112.44 Adopt effective measures to address the high levels of pregnancy among girls and adolescents, and ensure their effective access to sexual and reproductive health care and services and education programmes (Iceland);

112.45 Guarantee respect of sexual and reproductive rights and take measures to prevent early pregnancies, particularly through awareness-raising and sexual education (Luxembourg);

112.46 Take measures to prevent child pregnancies by providing access to comprehensive sexuality education and integral sexual and reproductive health services for teenagers (Sweden);

112.47 Adopt effective measures to address the high level of pregnancy among girls and adolescents and ensure their effective access to sexual and reproductive health services (Belgium);

112.48 Adopt practical measures to promote equal representation of men and women in elected public office and to guarantee equal remuneration and satisfactory working conditions to all citizens (Portugal);

112.49 Take all necessary measures towards rigorous implementation of all legislation on gender equality (Burkina Faso);

112.50 Develop government programmes and strategies to prevent, investigate and punish human rights violations against women, in particular lesbian women, according to existing laws ratified by the State (New Zealand);

112.51 Take steps to place higher priority on the prosecution of violence and discrimination against women, transgender and transsexual people, as well as access to justice for victims of these crimes (Australia);

112.52 Decriminalize and eliminate all punitive measures related to termination of pregnancies in cases of rape, incest and severe fetal impairment (Denmark);

112.53 Strengthen preventive, protective and rehabilitative measures for women and girl victims of sexual violence, through specialized psychosocial, legal and health services (Brazil);

112.54 Expedite the adoption process of draft framework law 5125 on disability in order to contribute to the due implementation and fulfilment of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (Spain);

112.55 Ensure that the rights and fundamental freedoms of persons with disabilities are respected by abolishing all practices of forced sterilization and coercive abortions of women and girls with disabilities, and by investigating and punishing their perpetrators (Argentina).

113. All conclusions and/or recommendations contained in the present report reflect the position of the submitting State(s) and/or the State under review. They should not be construed as endorsed by the Working Group as a whole.

Annex

[English/Spanish only]

Composition of the delegation

The delegation of Guatemala was headed by Dr. Jorge Luis Borrayo Reyes, President of the Presidential Commission for Coordinating Executive Policy in the Field of Human Rights and composed of the following members:

Embajadora Carla María Rodríguez Mancia, Representante Permanente de Guatemala ante la Organización de las Naciones Unidas y otras Organizaciones Internacionales en Ginebra;

Licenciada Aura Leticia Teleguario, Ministra de Trabajo y Previsión Social;

Licenciada María Eugenia Morales Aceña, Magistrada de la Corte Suprema de Justicia;

Sra. Silvia Patricia Valdés Quezada, Magistrada de la Corte Suprema de Justicia;

Dr. Rubén González Valenzuela, Viceministro de Atención Primaria en Salud Pública y Asistencia Social;

Licenciado Juan Pablo López Díaz, Comisionado Presidencial contra la Discriminación y Racismo (CODISRA);

Licenciada Ofelia González, Secretaria Privada y de Asuntos Estratégicos, Ministerio Público;

Licenciado Carlos Hugo Avila, Director de Derechos Humanos, Ministerio de Relaciones Exteriores;

Licenciado René Armando Lam España, Director de Asuntos Jurídicos, Ministerio de Gobernación;

Ingeniero Otto Estuardo Velásquez Vásquez, Director de Planificación y Monitoreo, Secretaría de Seguridad Alimentaria y Nutricional (SESAN);

Licenciada Claudia Lorena Sigüenza Alvarado, Investigación e Informes de Comisión Presidencial Coordinadora de la Política del Ejecutivo en Materia de Derechos Humanos (COPREDEH);

Licenciada María José del Águila Castillo, Ministro Consejero de la Misión Permanente de Guatemala ante la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas en Ginebra;

Doctor Gabriel Orellana Zabalza, Consejero de la Embajada de Guatemala en Bruselas, Bélgica;

Srita. Cecilia Beatriz Cáceres Valdéz, Primer Secretario de la Misión Permanente de Guatemala ante la Organización de las Naciones Unidas y otras Organizaciones Internacionales en Ginebra;

Sr. Luis Erick Gudiel Pineda, Primer Secretario de la Misión Permanente de Guatemala ante la Organización de las Naciones Unidas y otras Organizaciones Internacionales en Ginebra;

Srita. Alicia María Marroquín Mogollón, Segundo Secretario de la Misión Permanente de Guatemala ante la Organización de las Naciones Unidas y otras Organizaciones Internacionales en Ginebra;

Licenciado Rolando Antonio Castillo López, Ministerio de Gobernación;

Licenciado William Oswaldo Ramírez Quiñonez, Asesor Técnico de la Comisión Presidencial Coordinadora de la Política del Ejecutivo en Materia de Derechos Humanos (COPREDEH);

Licenciada Nydia Lissette Arevalo Flores de Corzantes, Directora General, Instituto de la Defensa Pública Penal; Licenciado Esteban Mollinedo, Director Fortalecimiento Institucional Instituto Defensa Pública Penal.