Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review, established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1, held its thirty-eighth session from 3 to 14 May 2021. These questions are available on the website of the universal periodic review.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. In her introductory statement, the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, European Affairs and Foreign Trade, and Federal Cultural Institutions stated that the universality of human rights was an essential pillar of the effective multilateralism that Belgium advocated, and that the universal periodic review was an important peer review exercise that helped to protect and strengthen the implementation of human rights in Belgium.
6. Since Belgium was a federal State, the protection of human rights was ensured by authorities at several different levels. The national report was therefore the result of close cooperation between the various constituent parts of Belgium, namely the federal Government, the Communities and the Regions. This institutional framework entailed responsibilities at different levels of government and shared responsibility in certain areas.
7. Human rights were effectively protected in Belgium by both the legislation in force and the rigorous application of that legislation. Belgium was among the small group of countries that were up to date with their periodic reporting to the United Nations treaty bodies. As of 2016, Belgium had ratified seven conventions and one protocol of the International Labour Organization, as well as the Council of Europe Convention on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women and Domestic Violence (Istanbul Convention). Crime policy had been strengthened and three support centres for victims of sexual violence had been established in 2017 and 2020. The federated entities had also increased their capacities in that regard.

8. Belgium had undertaken to put in place a national human rights institution that covered all fundamental rights throughout the territory, in accordance with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles). The establishment of the Federal Institute for the Protection and Promotion of Human Rights in 2019 was a step forward insofar as the Institute had federal jurisdiction and would gain interfederal status at a later stage, thus ensuring full coverage of human rights. It was also possible for the federated entities to set up their own institutions. The federated entities and the federal Government were to sign a cooperation agreement setting out a shared vision.

9. One major priority was the implementation of reforms to improve conditions of detention. Long-term structural changes were being made in three areas: work on buildings in order to reduce prison overcrowding by 15 per cent; the application of the law on the personal situation of prisoners; and the use of non-custodial measures in order to further reduce overcrowding. The Minister wished to stress that a comprehensive reform of psychiatric detention had been carried out.

10. Regarding respect for human rights in the context of law enforcement, the police regulations were based on the principles of impartiality, integrity and dignity. Under those regulations, all forms of discrimination were prohibited. Ethnic profiling was also banned in Belgium. Oversight was carried out by bodies in each of the three branches of government and within the police force. Police officers' compliance with the law, including the provisions designed to protect human rights, was effectively monitored by these bodies. Where necessary, criminal penalties or other sanctions were imposed.

11. The fight against all forms of discrimination was a matter of particular importance to Belgium. Various initiatives designed to strengthen the existing laws against racism were being or had been undertaken, including at the federal level. In June 2019, the Decade for People of African Descent had been proclaimed at the national level. Civil society consultations had been held in early October 2019 as part of the process of preparing a national plan against racism that was to be launched in 2021.

12. As a result of its efforts to close the gender pay gap, Belgium had one of the smallest such gaps in the world. Reducing the gender pension gap remained a priority. In 2011, Belgium had adopted binding quotas in various sectors, both public and private, which had had a tangible impact. The implementation of the 2014–2019 Federal Plan for Gender Mainstreaming had been evaluated and a plan for the period 2021–2025 was being prepared. Lastly, in response to the health crisis, an analysis of the gender dimension of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic in Belgium had been carried out.

13. As of 2018, transgender persons no longer had to meet specific medical criteria to have their registered sex and given name officially amended. The Interfederal Action Plan to Combat Discrimination and Violence against Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Intersex Persons for the period 2018–2019 had been launched and a new plan was being prepared.

14. A large number of measures had been taken at different levels of government with regard to the employment of persons with disabilities. At the federal level, since 2018 labour inspectors had been able to make "mystery calls". In addition, the legislation on public procurement had been amended in order to promote the use of adapted work enterprises.

15. The objectives of the third Federal Anti-Poverty Plan (2016–2019) had included the reduction of child poverty. That remained a priority of the fourth plan. One approach involved tackling the structural causes of poverty at the local level. The Communities and the Regions had developed a number of plans with an impact on poverty.

16. Regarding asylum and migration, unaccompanied foreign minors were never detained in closed centres. Instead, they stayed in specialized centres. In 2020, Belgium had strengthened its procedures relating to the principle of non-refoulement.

17. Belgium, an open and democratic society that attached great importance to human rights, had not been spared from terrorist attacks. The Government remained firmly committed to protecting those values, having opted for a resolutely holistic approach to the fight against violent extremism and terrorism. Prevention, enforcement and due diligence went hand in hand. Several laws had been passed to strengthen the fight against extremism and terrorism while ensuring respect for human rights.

18. In the context of the COVID-19 pandemic, respect for human rights had remained a core concern for the Belgian authorities. Measures had been adopted, on the basis of recommendations made by experts, to pursue a legitimate objective by means that were necessary, proportionate, non-discriminatory and transparent.

19. To conclude, the Minister mentioned a long tradition of collaboration with civil society. All Belgian authorities consulted and listened to civil society on a regular basis. The Government undertook to continue its dialogue with civil society as part of its follow-up to the universal periodic review.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

20. During the interactive dialogue, 119 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.

21. The Republic of Korea, Romania, the Russian Federation, Rwanda, Saudi Arabia, Senegal, Serbia, Sierra Leone, Singapore, Slovakia, Slovenia, Somalia, Spain, Sri Lanka, the State of Palestine, the Sudan, Switzerland, the Syrian Arab Republic, Thailand, Timor-Leste, Tunisia, Turkey, Turkmenistan, Ukraine, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of), Viet Nam, Zambia, Afghanistan, Albania, Angola, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Azerbaijan, the Bahamas, Bahrain, Bangladesh, Belarus, Bhutan, Botswana, Brazil, Bulgaria, Burkina Faso, Cambodia, Canada, Chile, China, the Congo, Costa Rica, Côte d'Ivoire, Croatia, Cuba, Cyprus, Czechia, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Denmark, Djibouti, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Fiji, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Ghana, Greece, Guyana, Haiti, Iceland, India, Indonesia, Iran (Islamic Republic of), Iraq, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Kazakhstan, Lebanon, the Lao People's Democratic Republic, Libya, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malawi, Malaysia, Maldives, Malta, the Marshall Islands, Mauritius, Mexico, Mongolia, Montenegro, Morocco, Mozambique, Nepal, the Netherlands, Nicaragua, the Niger, Nigeria, North Macedonia, Norway, Pakistan, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, the Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Qatar, Togo, Uganda and Uzbekistan made statements. The webcasts of the full statements are available online.⁴

22. In response to the statements made by member States, the Minister confirmed that Belgium was committed to ratifying the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment as soon as possible. The only reason for the delay was that it wished to establish a national preventive mechanism that would be operational as soon as possible after ratification.

23. There had been a marked decrease in prison overcrowding in Belgium since 2013: the average rate of overcrowding had fallen from 21.4 per cent for the period 2011–2012 to 11 per cent for the period 2015–2020. The Government was continuing its efforts in that area.

24. The national action plan against racism was being actively prepared and would include measures covering all aspects of society.

25. With regard to Islamophobia, religion was a protected characteristic under Belgian anti-discrimination legislation. Religious or philosophical belief was one of the discriminatory criteria that had been taken into account during the collection of data relating to equality in Belgium. The fight against Islamophobia was the subject of many measures taken by the federated entities and would also be an integral part of the national action plan against racism.

26. Regarding the ratification of the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families, Belgium attached great importance to ensuring respect for the rights of migrant workers. However, the approach set out in the Convention that consisted of conferring equal rights on all migrant workers, whether they were in a regular or irregular situation, was not compatible with European Union regulations.

27. In 2017, the first National Plan of Action on Business and Human Rights had been adopted at the various levels of government. In March 2021, an external evaluation had been carried out to assess the progress made and the need for additional measures. A second national plan of action was being prepared. Belgium also supported the work on due diligence that was being done at the European Union level.

28. The future national action plan against racism would include measures to counter antisemitism. The antisemitism watchdog had been reactivated in early 2019. Belgium had participated in the “Turning Words into Action” project run by the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. In addition, the federated entities had taken several measures to create an environment that was conducive to the prevention of antisemitism.

29. Regarding asylum and migration, families with minor children were not, in principle, placed in detention unless the place of detention was adapted to the needs of such families. Only those families who continued to refuse to cooperate under the voluntary departure scheme could be transferred to an open family unit, where their liberty was restricted to a certain degree.

30. Trafficking in persons and the exploitation of prostitution were severely punished under the Belgian Criminal Code. The existing action plan had been updated for 2020 and 2021, and a new plan for the period 2021–2025 was to be adopted in 2021.

31. With respect to climate and environmental issues, the Minister referred to the legislation that transposed into national law the European directive on the Convention on Access to Information, Public Participation in Decision-Making and Access to Justice in Environmental Matters. The principles of the Convention were therefore consistently applied by all Belgian authorities.

32. Regarding foreign terrorist fighters, in March 2021 the Government had finalized the changes to its policy on the repatriation of Belgian mothers and children who were in the north-east of the Syrian Arab Republic and in Iraq. Belgium was actively continuing to repatriate Belgian minors in line with the best interests of the child. Belgian children under the age of 12 years – that is, all the Belgian minors concerned – were automatically eligible for repatriation, with follow-up at the community level. Belgian mothers wishing to return to Belgium would be repatriated if it was established, on a case-by-case basis, that their return did not constitute a threat to national security. When it came to other foreign terrorist fighters, whether men or women, Belgium continued to seek to have them tried in the region where the crimes had been committed.

33. Concerning hate speech, in order to ensure that all press offences motivated by hatred towards a protected group were handled in the same way and that no press offence went unpunished, article 150 of the Constitution had been declared subject to review and a proposed amendment was being prepared. The 2013 joint circular of the Minister of Justice, the Minister of the Interior and the College of Prosecutors General, which dealt with the policy regarding online hate speech (cyberhate), would be amended to improve the recording of hate crimes.

34. The Minister concluded by thanking the delegations for their questions and recommendations and by noting that Belgium had always supported the principles that formed the basis for the universal periodic review.
